

Retaining compassion in constrained economic times:

- Nurturing self-belief
- Supporting mental health
- Creating resilient learning environments

Where

London South Bank University
Business School
Borough Rd, London SE1 0AN

When

Monday 19th June

Time

10.00am – 3.00pm

For practitioners, SENCOs and teachers who work with disabled and neurodivergent students

Why

To gain new insights into supporting these students to transition to higher level learning in college, university or the workplace

What

Our key note speakers are:

Dame Christine Lenehan, Director of the Council for Disabled Children

Professor Deborah Johnston, Deputy Vice Chancellor LSBU

Jonathan Vincent, Lecturer Lancaster University, specialism in transitions for disabled students

Plus workshops from a range of organisations focusing on the experiences, systems and structures to support students with a disability or neurodiversity.

CLICK HERE TO REGISTER ON EVENTBRITE

<https://www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/retaining-compassion-in-constrained-times-cpd-event-for-send-practitioners-tickets-624280027367>

Any questions? Contact us:

Email: aimhigherlondon@kingston.ac.uk